avenues of activism

This Missouri History Museum series offers avenues of activism in the St. Louis area. Topics such as community engagement and active citizenship are examined from different perspectives through a variety of formats, including exhibition viewings, guest lecturers, documentary showings, and workshops.

A Commemoration of the JEFFERSON BANK DEMONSTRATIONS

Commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Jefferson Bank protests, one of the most important chapters in St. Louis civil rights history, with those who lived the experience and those who continue the work today. Join us for the programs below, plus view historical displays courtesy of Hands On Black History Museum.
